STEVENS IS APPLAUDED BY MEMBERS

Back Benchers Support Him As He Clashes With Cahan

RECALLS REASONS FOR RESIGNATION

OTTAWA, April 12 (CP).—While Conservative back-benchers thundered applause, Hon. H. H. Stevens had a field day in the House of Commons today. He clashed with Secretary of State C. H. Cahan; explained why he resigned from the Bennett Government last October; and declared he had no apologies to offer any man for his conduct in relation to the Mass Buying Commission.

To top off the tense, dramatic scene, the former Minister of Trade and Commerce jumped to his feet when the Mass Buying Commission report was tabled and moved its adoption. It was believed to be unprecedented in modern parliamentary history for a private member of a commission to move the motion which usually comes from the chairman.

PRESS REPORTS
The feature of the incident was the enthusiastic desk-thumping by Conservative members which greeted the former minister. Early in the afternoon, Mr. Stevens accepted responsibility for premature publication of the recommendations of the price spreads commission.

This led the Secretary of State to enter the debate with references to oaths of office. When Mr. Stevens rose to reply, referring to his resignation from the Cabinet, his voice was drowned out by applause from Conservative back benches.

The incident opened with Liberal Leader Mackenzie King referring to premature publication of the price spreads commission.

BLIND MAN TO ACT AS JUDGE

Forty Horses Entered in Seattle Race—Entry of Kangaroo Protested

SEATTLE, April 12 (AP).—Mayor Charles Smith and the board of stewards today denounced Harry M. Westfall, president of the Seattle park board, for "crooked tactics" in entering a kangaroo in the "Ringbone Derby" for decrepit nags.
"It is not so much that I resent your entering a kangaroo," the mayor wrote Mr. Westfall, "but we understand you named him 'Horsefeathers,' with the idea of deceiving the judge, Basil Gray, who was appointed by yourself. I happen to know that Mr. Gray, an officer of the Musicians' Union, is blind. This was scarcely ethical."

FORTY HORSES ENTERED
The "Ringbone Derby" of the park board has forty horses entered, all more than twelve years old. It will be run at Woodland Park tomorrow. The first horse across the line loses, but the third nag to stagger in wins a keg of beer. Mounted police will guard the course.

"There is no excuse for this derby," President Westfall said, "but the park board is doing its duty in seeking to entertain the citizenry. The only publicity anyone will get out of it will be unfavorable."

HANDICAPPING PROBLEM
Handicapping the horses is a fearful problem, the stewards said, but some jockeys will carry opened umbrellas, wear rubber boots, knapsacks, and the like. The weather was fine today for the final workouts, but the track and horses were terrible.

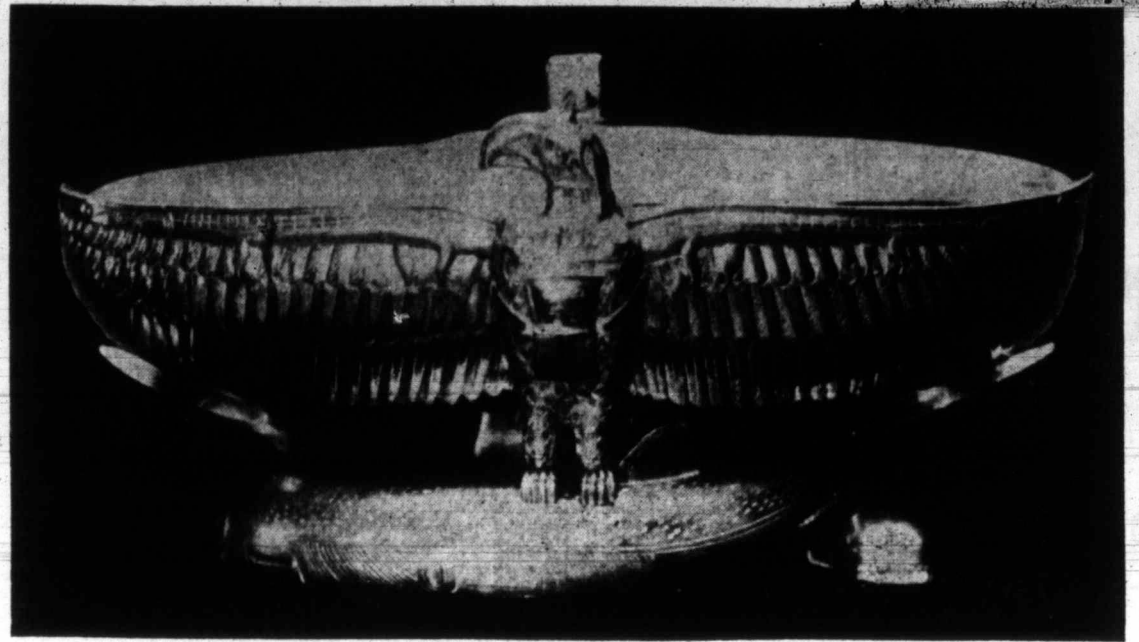

SAD EXAMPLE IS BEFORE HIS EYES

President Roosevelt Regulates Spending of Money to Eliminate Grade Crossings

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP).—With the tragic death of a close-by grade crossing accident before him, President Roosevelt today laid down the principles to govern the spending of between $100,000,000 and $200,000,000 of work relief funds for making safe the places where highways and railroads meet.

The President cited the accident last night at Rockville, Md., in which fourteen pupils were killed when a school bus was smashed by a train, as an illustration of the need for grade-crossing elimination. The states or localities would provide the land for doing away with the crossings.

BUREAU WINS HIGH PRAISE

Business Delegation Favors Increased Publicity—Critics Heard

Sitting as a public works committee, the entire City Council under Mayor David Leeming yesterday afternoon listened to a delegation from the Victoria Ratepayers' Association against an increase in the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau grant. Another group of representative businessmen urged that the allowance be increased. They paid tribute to the work of the bureau, and asserted it was achieving excellent results for the amount expended.

At present the grant is $15,000 annually. The bureau seeks to have this raised to $25,000, at which it was set for several years. The ratepayers strenuously opposed this, even suggesting that the sum be wiped out entirely.

Fred J. Crowhurst, president of Victoria Ratepayers' Association, accused the city of being on an orgy of expenditure. He thought the publicity bureau got along nicely on $15,000 last year, and that a picnic site should be put to the people if the city planned to increase the grant.

"FIVE-YEAR PLAN"
"Are you in favor of the five-year plan?" asked Alderman Percy R. Brown.
"That is beyond our jurisdiction. I am afraid I am ignorant in the matter," he replied.

SHARP RISE IN BUSINESS SEEN

Most Marked Upturn in Twenty Years Forecast for Immediate Future

NEW YORK, April 12 (AP).—The sharpest business rise in twenty-five years was forecast for the immediate future in The Weekly Business Review by Dun & Bradstreet today.
"More convincing proof has come forward that the passing of March left behind the lows for the year," The Review stated.
"During the week there was a complete transformation of sentiment, as the hopes for a rather far removed improvement were replaced by a realization that the immediate future is to bring the sharpest rise that has been witnessed in business in the past quarter of a century."
The Review added that the rise "will be fortified adequately to prevent the interrupting recessions which followed the spurts of the last two years."

All Deputies Keen to Take Alaska Trip

SEATTLE, April 12 (AP).—Every deputy U.S. marshal here and in Tacoma volunteered today when Marshal A. J. Chitty asked for one to take Dan Taylor, Seattle fisherman, to Valdez, Alaska, to face trial on a charge of killing sea otter.
So Chitty put his staff's names in a hat and Miss Bertha Johnson, office secretary, reached in and pulled out a slip which read "Deputy Robert Frost, Tacoma."
Frost and Taylor will leave tomorrow on the steamship Alaska.

Three Powers Agree On Condemnation of German Militarism

Organizes Walkout, Strikes, Pickets, and All on His Lonesome

LONGVIEW, Wash., April 12 (AP).—The great one-man maritime strike of Mr. J. Hensley today blocked loading of the Weyerhaeuser Lumber Company steamship Hanley.

Mr. Hensley, a young man who is a radio operator dissatisfied with wages, posted a sign today, stating he was on strike. The burly union longshoremen came down, one and all, five crews of them, to load the ship. There was a picket line. It was Mr. Hensley. Union longshoremen do not pass picket lines, so they quit trying to load the boat. The picket line marched up and down. This kept up all day, and they didn't load the ship—perhaps the most successful one-man strike in history.

Will Seek Highway Loan at Ottawa on Coming Mission East

British Columbia to Ask for $3,000,000 for Roads and Other Federal Aid—Hon. John Hart, Hon. Gordon Sloan and Hon. Dr. G. M. Weir Will Leave Shortly for Capital

BRITISH Columbia will shortly seek a loan of $3,000,000 at Ottawa for a programme of highway construction and betterment, Hon. John Hart intimated yesterday, preparing for his departure for the East before the end of next week. In addition, the Minister of Finance will consult Federal and bank authorities about refunding, unemployment relief and general financing, he said.

Mr. Hart left last evening for Cowichan Lake for a brief rest before going East on the new mission. This year he will go alone, and will carry the main burden of negotiations between the Province and the Dominion on fiscal matters.

WILL ASK LESS
Last year, aid to the extent of some $9,000,000 was extended by Ottawa to the Province. This year, it is unofficially expected the assistance to be sought will be very much less.

Attorney-General Sloan will leave independently for the East on April 24, to argue five British Columbia cases before the Supreme Court of Canada, on or about April 29, as counsel for the Province.

Hon. Dr. G. M. Weir will leave on April 19, to be on hand in Ottawa on April 25 for the opening of the Dominion health conference, under Hon. Dr. D. M. Sutherland, Federal Minister of Health, he said yesterday.

Fire in Burnaby Razes Labor Hall

VANCOUVER, April 12 (CP).—Fire of unknown origin today destroyed the Jubilee woodyard and the Labor Hall near the corner of Maple and Imperial Streets, Burnaby, and threatened several small stores and residents in the vicinity before being brought under control. Damage is estimated at approximately $6,000.
A pump wagon was sent from Vancouver to assist the Burnaby fire department in fighting the flames.

Conference Hears of Hitler's Willingness to Enter Into Security Pact

REPORTS INDICATE SPLIT IN CABINET

STRESA, April 12 (CP).—Germany's plunge into militarism in defiance of treaty obligations will be formally condemned before the Council of the League of Nations on Monday.

The Governments of Great Britain, France and Italy agreed today on the main lines of the resolutions of condemnation they themselves would approve. This, it is understood, not only attacks Germany's unilateral disregard of treaties, but raises the question of steps to be taken to prevent unilateral treaty violations in the future.

CAMP STRIKERS STAGE PARADE

Several Hundred Men March Through Two Vancouver Department Stores

VANCOUVER, April 12 (CP).—Several hundred relief camp strikers staged a parade on downtown streets today, dispersing after clashing with police in David Spencer's, Ltd., one of two department stores through which they marched. No arrests were made.

Following the parade and store-marching episodes, strikers announced they would hold a tag day tomorrow, despite lack of permission to do, which the city council refused to grant earlier in the week. The marchers paraded to Woodward's Department Store, which they entered, parading through the aisles in orderly fashion, occasionally shouting, "When do we eat," "We want work and wages," and similar slogans.

RIDE ON ESCALATOR

From there they went to Spencer's, where they marched through the main floor with a number riding the escalator until the power was turned off. Uniformed and plainclothes officers arrested and attempted to break up the march through the aisles. A scuffle ensued and some articles were knocked from counters but no real damage done, which authorities stated was due to the marchers' disinclination to cause serious trouble.

Apparent leaders of the parade shouted "Don't touch any goods," during the marching in both stores.

RELIEF CAMPS HAVE RACKETS

Commissioners Find Foreman and Cook Make All The Difference

VANCOUVER, April 12 (CP).—The Royal Commission investigating conditions in British Columbia relief camps today heard evidence that men in the camps often exploited a "clothing racket"; that the province was loaded with transients from other provinces during the Fall months, and that, as far as the relief camps are concerned, a foreman and a cook can largely determine their nature.

Under the chairman, Hon. W. A. MacDonald, the commissioners visited camps along the highway between Chilliwack and Boston Bar before returning to Vancouver.

REPEAT THE PROCESS
They were told that it is common practice for men to enter camp, receive the regulation issue of clothing, then leave within a few days and dispose of the clothing, later re-registering in Vancouver, perhaps under different names, and repeating the process at some other camp.

Under camp regulations men are allowed to leave with one change of official clothing. Several camp foremen told the commission that men from the Prairie Provinces and even as far east as the Maritime Provinces flock into British Columbia during the Fall months. During the recent walkout, witnesses said a number of men who usually head eastward at this time of year went to Vancouver instead.

During ten days of inspecting camps, the commissioners have found evidence of a great difference between camps, which may be only a few miles apart, principally due, according to witnesses, to the administration of the camp foreman and the cook.

Government Regulation of Industry and Stringent Control Over Certain Branches of Production and Marketing Features Long-Expected Report Submitted to Parliament at Ottawa

Cheerless Picture Is Given On Conditions in Industry

OTTAWA, April 12 (CP).—Monumental in its proportions and incorporating recommendations which, if implemented by legislation, would establish Canada's "new deal for business," the report of the Royal Commission on mass buying was tabled today in the House of Commons by Hon. R. B. Hanson, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

Regulation of industry as a whole by a Government board, with more stringent control over various branches of industry chiefly so far as it relates to primary products within the compass of the Marketing Act, is the keynote of the report.

The whole body of Canadian industrial activity is placed under the microscope, agencies operating towards its present ailment are detected and the commission makes strong recommendations designed to eliminate them. Principally the commissioners analyze and comment on operations of those corporations, investigation of which was their main business. But in the progress of their inquiry they accumulated such a vast amount of evidence covering practically all aspects of industry in general that they embrace the economic fabric of Canada in their suggested solutions.

The report is replete with references to "monopolistic control" exercised by various corporations. Such control, it is recalled from the evidence, has in the past prevented free competition; and until the monopolies are regulated for the public weal the consequences of their activities will continue harmful to the body politic. This, in general, sums up the commission's attitude towards this development.

INDUSTRIAL SECTION
The industrial section of the report, extending to approximately 40,000 words, paints a cheerless picture of conditions in Canada. It presents tobacco manufacturers as enriching themselves at the expense of their workmen and the primary producers.

Mass Buying Commission Reviews Set-Up of Three Companies

OTTAWA, April 12 (CP).—Comments on the financial set-up of three large Canadian corporations, Robert Simpson Company, Limited, Toronto; Burns & Company, Calgary, and Canadian Packers, Limited, Hamilton, Ont., were contained in an annex to the report of the Price Spreads Commission, tabled today in the House of Commons.

After reviewing the financial history of the Simpson Company, which dates back to 1872 and involves two or three reorganizations, the report drew the following "inferences and conclusions":

HUGE PROFIT
"(1) That the majority interests of the operating Simpson Company, after receiving dividends for over twenty years, some of the time at a very high rate, received more than $15,000,000; over $6,700,000 of which represented a profit over and above Continued on Page 13, Column 7

WIDE AREAS TO BE ABANDONED

U.S. Government Plans to Withdraw Millions of Acres From Production

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP).—A survey of the millions of dollars of damage caused by drought and dust storms in Western states was projected today by the Federal Government in preparation for putting into effect a plan to withdraw wide areas of agriculture land from production.

The survey will be conducted by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. It is preliminary to conferences to be held on problems confronting people in the dust-originating areas.

Plans already under consideration call for withdrawal of between 50,000,000 and 100,000,000 acres now in production to use for grazing, forest plantings, recreation and wild life purposes.

DUST STORM ABATING

DODGE CITY, Kas., April 12 (AP).—The wind-swept Southwest looked up through disappearing dust clouds today, and counted crop losses of more than $30,000,000. Arizona, outside the hard-hit area, experienced dust today. Clouds rolled over Phoenix which apparently came from New Mexico. Nogales, Ariz., residents clamped wet cloths over their noses.
Throughout the storm area schools reopened, stores resumed business and transportation difficulties were ironed out.

Smart work on the part of the salvage crew aboard the Respond was responsible for the Provincial's refloating without any apparent damage. She was brought into Victoria by the tug last evening, and this morning will be hauled out for examination.

Mexican Leader Ends Uncertainty As to Gov't Plan

President Sets at Rest Fears That Communist Regime Might Be Established—Business Organizations Say Depression Growing Worse Because of Lack of Confidence

MEXICO, D.F., April 12 (AP).—Four months of uncertainty as to whether the Government of President Lazaro Cardenas planned to establish a Communist regime in Mexico were ended tonight when he said "Communism is not my doctrine nor the inspiration of my policies."

At a time when strikes are sweeping the country, the President declared himself openly in favor of the strike as a weapon of the worker in obtaining social justice.

But at the same time he predicted a rapid end of current difficulties, and said that under his Government private enterprise "will count on full guarantees and securities."

SEES NEW ERA

Summarizing conditions in the country, Cardenas said Mexico is headed toward an era of directed economy, but that this must be founded on social justice for the working classes.

The present strikes, he continued, "are movements which will vindicate the essential rights of the workers and I am glad they came in my administration."

"We have encouraged and defended the right of workers and peasants to elevate their living conditions with better salaries, to own their own lands and enjoy more just working conditions, and when from works we pass to facts, the timid spirits are frightened."

"As for me, all those who know me know that I cannot be the instrument of a prosperity founded on unjust exploitation of working classes."

SEEK ASSURANCES

Almost simultaneously with publication of the interview, the principles and procedure of effecting the necessary readjustments after the Dominion legislation is enacted.

(b) To plan for decentralized but uniformly efficient administration, through Provincial Departments of Labor if possible.

(c) Regardless of the enactment of Dominion labor legislation generally, to encourage and promote public understanding of the problems of labor relations, legislation and administration.

(d) And for such other purposes as the Governor-in-Council or Minister may determine.

ANNUAL CONFERENCE

Pending the settlement of the constitutional question of Dominion or provincial competence, annual convocation of a Dominion-provincial labor conference to consider:

(a) Methods of harmonizing provincial labor legislation.

(b) The implementing of international labor draft conventions.

The agenda for such Dominion-provincial labor conferences and all memoranda should be drafted and circulated by the proposed division of service and standards of the Dominion Department of Labor.

PRIMARY PRODUCERS

1. The fruit and vegetable grower: The extension to all canning plants and to all produce of the experimental inspection service began in 1934 and designed to check deliveries of fruit and vegetables for quality, grading and weight. This should remove complaints of arbitrary and excessive "dockage."

2. The livestock producer: Direct shipments of livestock to packers' yards to be subject to the same rules of weighing, grading, publication of prices, deliveries, sales, competition and supervision as shipments are to the public stockyards.

Regulations to be passed to permit producers, where they so desire, to sell stock by auction on the public stockyards.

Livestock commission agents' charges should be based on a lower specific charge plus a commission reckoned on the value of the livestock sold.

AGENTS LICENSED

All commission agents to be licensed and their responsibilities clearly defined by the Dominion Government.

All trucks to be licensed and bonded, and to use standard bills of lading. Trucks to be prohibited from selling stock themselves.

The sale of hogs by fixed differentials to be discontinued with the exception of the premium on select and each grade of hogs to be sold separately at whatever price it will bring.

Grading of hogs on the rail to be introduced and developed where producers desire it and conditions make it possible; grading of live hogs by Department of Agriculture officials to be continued.

Cattle to be graded and sold on grades. All live cattle to be graded before export to Great Britain.

A percentage of cutter and canner beef to be removed from the meat trade and diverted to other uses, such as fertilizer or tannage.

Diseased and old stock to be kept off the fresh meat market entirely.

ABATTOIRS CONTROLLED

Municipal and small abattoirs to be placed under the health of animals branch, Department of Agriculture.

Consumer grades for meats: "A" grade bacon for export to be composed of sides from select and bacon hogs only.

Grading of bacon and hams for export to be done in Canada by qualified Government inspectors.

Reduction of freight rates on livestock for export.

A livestock board to be established under appropriate jurisdiction with the following duties:

GREAT SOLDIER PASSES AWAY

Earl of Dundonald Well Known for Reorganization Of Canadian Militia

LONDON, April 12 (CP).—The Earl of Dundonald, who stirred the whole Canadian nation three decades ago by his energetic plans to reorganize the Canadian militia, died today at the age of eighty-two, after a brief illness.

A great soldier, who saw service in Egypt and South Africa before becoming general officer commanding the Canadian militia in 1902, and years later proved himself a valuable assistant in conduct of Great War operations. Lord Dundonald came of a distinguished Scottish fighting family.

He will be remembered chiefly as the man who led the final advance into Ladysmith. He also rode across the desert with dispatches telling of the death of Gordon of Khartoum. In Canada he will long be known as the military man whose conflicts with politicians stirred the Ottawa and London Parliaments. Dundonald went to Canada in 1902 to reorganize the Canadian militia.

Among Dundonald's comrades in South Africa were Winston Churchill and Lord Byng of Vimy, who became Governor-General of Canada twenty years after Dundonald left the Dominion.

He was sixty-two years of age when the Great War broke out, but he served overseas nonetheless and earned another medal before he was called back to London in 1915, becoming chairman of the Admiralty committee on smoke-screens, then just becoming an important technical assignment on land and sea.

His device for protective smoke-screens for shipping was adopted by the Admiralty and used throughout the war.

Report on Mass Buying Probe Is Tabled in House

Packing houses are severely criticized for control they are declared to exercise over livestock marketing, for what is declared to be studied efforts to prevent free competition in purchasing from farmers, and for "cut-throat competition" they wage with each other to obtain sales outlets.

The financial gyrations of at least one large canning company are subject to terse comment, and canners in general are scored for low prices paid to fruit and vegetable growers. The commission finds a serious situation in the flour-milling industry, and warns those who control it to set their financial house in order, particularly as regards getting rid of its surplus capacity or bankruptcy will inevitably follow.

ENTIRELY DISLOCATED

The furniture industry is, according to the report, completely dislocated. Surplus capacity is again blamed. The commissioners declare themselves open, however, to conviction that mass purchases did enable some furniture factories to keep going.

Department and chain stores come in for considerable comment. Much is said for and against the chain stores; but the chief complaint is that centralization of control, coupled with wide dispersion of operating units is bad, and that this harm is reflected in disturbing practices inimical to the public interest.

The whole report is not unanimous. Three commissioners out of the eleven signed it with lengthy reservations, chiefly on the livestock, tobacco and fisheries industry. One disagreed with the whole thing and wrote a dissenting report of his own.

MAJORITY SIGNED

The majority report was signed by Chairman W. W. Kennedy (Cons., Winnipeg South Centre), H. H. Stevens (Cons., Kootenay East), Mark C. Senns (Cons., Haldimand), Alex M. Edwards (Cons., Waterloo South), Thomas Bell (Cons., Saint John-Albert), J. L. Barbeau (Cons., Champlain), and D. M. Kennedy (U.P.A., Peace River).

The three who signed with reservations were J. L. Ildley (Lib., Hants-Kings), Oscar Boulanger (Lib., Bellechase) and Samuel Factor (Lib., Toronto West Centre).

The minority report was that of E. J. Young, Liberal free trader from Weyburn, Sask.

Promising Juvenile Artists Introduced By Eurydice Group

Talented Young Musicians and Actors Heard at Shrine Auditorium Last Evening—Original Compositions Presented in Programme

NO matter how constant a concert-goer, one rarely fails to be surprised at the constancy of the new supplies of music and dramatic talent here. Last evening's programme by the Eurydice Arts Club, given at the Shrine Auditorium, was a case in point, for it brought forward some astonishingly clever young artists who, although their names are practically unknown, have already reached the point where they can be classed as first-rate little entertainers.

The programme, in two parts, offered a fine diversity of subject matter and talent alike. The opening section of the entertainment comprised a three-act play, "The Magic Shirt," presented by the juvenile branch of the organization. Rehearsed and directed by Miss Aileen Parker and Miss Dorothy Cox, this was a most charming little story, distinguished by imagination, humor, sagacity and wit, and was acted with fine spirit and intelligence by the company of juveniles. Notable among the members of the cast was Sylvia Birkett in the role of the King. The part was acted with very fine understanding, animation and dignity, and the lines were spoken in a clear, ringing voice easily audible all over the auditorium.

The remainder of the company, on the whole, did their parts admirably, being as follows: Ivy Dunnett, the Queen; Irene Birkett, the Stranger; Jean Ray, the Jester; Mary Lyster, the Wise Man; Julia Kent-Jones, the Beggar; Robin Wood, an old man; Eva Aldridge, his wife; Netta Hunter, Freda Natrass, Dorothy McVie and Peggy McVie, heralds; Evaline Hunter, Grace Pink and Muriel Henry, the three daughters, and Flossie Ray, Dorothy Drury, Penella Jubb, Barbara McVie, Evelyn Bates and

CHIEF SCOUT PLANTS TREE

Lord and Lady Baden-Powell Participate in Ceremony at Park

Lord Robert Baden-Powell of Gilwell, G.C.M.G., K.C.B., Lady Baden-Powell, Hon. Heather Baden-Powell, Hon. Betty Baden-Powell and Premier T. D. Pattullo all took part in planting an English oak in the Mayors' Grove in Beacon Hill Park yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was arranged for the city by Alderman John A. Worthington. In greeting Lord and Lady Baden-Powell, Mayor David Leeming compared the tree to hearts of oak which had kept the British Empire constantly to the fore. He recalled the Battle of Mafeking in which the distinguished visitor had taken so great a part, and referred to the great strides made by the Boy Scout and Girl Guide movements. The Mayor closed by wishing Lord and Lady Baden-Powell godspeed.

REFERS TO TREE
Lord Baden-Powell thanked his Worship for the cordial welcome and hoped the tree would flourish and be a worthy partner to other sturdy trees in the Mayors' Grove. "I see I have disturbed quite a few flies," the World Chief Scout said with a smile. "I could use those nicely for fishing." He spoke in glowing terms of the beauties of Victoria and Vancouver Island, then took up the spade and shoveled some earth around the tree.

Premier Pattullo expressed deep appreciation of the good work accomplished by the Boy Scout movement and told how Scouts on the Island had aided fire prevention and forestry work.

"I admire the spade work of Lord Baden-Powell," he declared. "He evidently is a real forester."

HANDS OVER SPADE
"Come on mum," exclaimed Lord Baden-Powell, handing the spade to Lady Baden-Powell, who did her share in filling up the hole while the founder of the Boy Scout movement—stamped the earth down. Hon. Heather Baden-Powell and Hon. Betty Baden-Powell each took a turn at shovelling. Premier Pattullo finished the planting with a few deft strokes. The ceremony concluded with three hearty cheers and a tiger for the participants. Among those present, beside those already mentioned, were Sir Charles Delme-Radcliffe, General Sir Percy Lake, Aldermen Walter Luney, James Adam, Alex. Peden, Percy R. Brown and T. W. Hawkins, E. G. Snowden, John Baxter, James Wise and H. Travers Coleman, of Vancouver.

FIVE-YEAR PLAN TO BE DISCUSSED

A special meeting of the Saanich Board of Trade has been called by W. O. Wallace, president, for next Wednesday night, at 8 o'clock, to discuss the five-year plan of the Tourist Trade Development Association of Victoria and Vancouver Island.

The principal speakers will be Mayor David Leeming and T. H. Balick, secretary of the Tourist Association. Through the courtesy of the Publicity Bureau, motion pictures of fishing scenes and the Forbidden Plateau will be shown.

FIRE DISRUPTS WIRE SERVICES

Forests Ablaze on Both Sides of Fraser River in Vicinity of Hope

VANCOUVER, April 12 (CP).—A forest fire was reported burning on both sides of the Fraser River, in the vicinity of Hope, late tonight, disrupting telegraph communication east of that point.

Canadian National Telegraphs reported about a mile of poles down west of Hope, and did not expect to have trans-Canada wire facilities until tomorrow. Canadian Pacific reported telegraph service East interrupted when a pole fell across its line near Ruby Creek, on the opposite side of the river from the Canadian National line.

Blow Off Steam Off the Premises

SEATTLE, April 12 (AP).—Meeting just off the University of Washington campus today, between 400 and 500 students and others, gathered as a "protest against war," and heard speeches over a loudspeaker system. University officials did not protest the class-cutting, but said the meeting must be held off the campus. Police showed no interest.

SAT ON POWDER AND WAS BLOWN TO BITS

LONGVIEW, Wash., April 12 (AP).—Hubert Nichols, twenty-four, was blown to bits today in a dynamite explosion at the Weyerhaeuser Timber Company Camp No. 3. Sheriff H. T. O'Brien and Coroner Jerry March said they believed he was sitting on a keg of blasting powder preparing a charge to blow up a stump when the detonation occurred. Only portions of the body were recovered.

Salary Increases Will Come Before Council Wednesday

SALARY increases for City Hall employees, the public library staff and members of the police force will be discussed by the City Council when it meets at 2:15 o'clock next Wednesday afternoon. D. A. Macdonald, city controller and treasurer, will present his report upon feasibility of restoration of part of the two wage cuts given civic employees.

Aldermen Percy R. Brown and R. A. C. Dewar sponsored the motion to the council last Monday evening that Mr. Macdonald be instructed to investigate the possibility of salary increases.

PROVINCE WILL NOT INTERVENE

"General Strike" Aired at Meeting of Relief Group With Government

Talk of a general strike seeped into conversations between a committee of action and the Provincial Government yesterday, when a delegation of eight men came to Victoria to plead the cause of 1,700 men who voluntarily left relief camps last week. The committee asked the Province to help the men, mostly congregated at Vancouver, directly with food and shelter, and indirectly by representations to Ottawa. The answer was "no."

Premier Pattullo reminded the delegation that the Province had advised the men not to leave camp in the first place, and could not now intervene in what was a dispute between the men and Federal authorities operating national defence camps.

TALK GENERAL STRIKE
Asked what would be the Province's attitude if the dispute led to a general strike of organized labor, the Premier told the delegation that law and order would be kept. "We got lots of sympathy, but that was all," a spokesman for the delegation stated later. The group left on the evening boat for Vancouver to report to the main body of the men today.

Included in the party meeting the Premier were J. Kelly, T. Paralli and F. Karachuk, of the Relief Camp Workers' Union; R. Bray, of the C.C.F. Unemployed Councils; C. Lajeunesse, of the Lumber Workers' Industrial Union; A. Ratti, of the Water Transport Workers' Union; J. Williamson, of the Amalgamated Building Workers' Union, and Mrs. D. M. Semla, of the Socialist Party of Canada.

COUNCIL MEETS ON ESTIMATES

Will Have to Find $46,874 Before Setting Current Mill Rate

Alderman John A. Worthington moved that the mill rate for 1935 be set at forty-one mills, when the City Council met yesterday afternoon to consider estimates. "We must make up our minds upon a rate of forty-one mills, or bust," he exclaimed. Alderman Andrew McGavin seconded the motion, but it was withdrawn on instigation of Mayor David Leeming and Alderman Percy R. Brown. The motion, amended and passed unanimously, was to the effect that "this committee has as its objective a tax rate of forty-one mills."

FUNDS NEEDED

C. Norman, assistant comptroller, stated that estimated civic expenditures for 1935 were $3,068,334, less $10,000 for the Empress Hotel flat tax rate. This gave expenditures of $2,102,899, to which must be added $2,300 for traffic signals, and $200 for a new fire department truck. This totaled $2,104,499. A tax rate of forty-one mills, Mr. Norman said, would produce revenue of $1,572,725, which subtracted from expenditures of $2,104,499, left $536,774 to be found before the budget could be balanced.

SUSPEND PAYMENTS

Part of the $536,774 will be made up of $50,000 from the sinking fund surplus, $257,900 from suspension of sinking fund payments, $105,000 in loan from the Government for relief, adjustment provision for shortage in collections, extra tax collections, and an increase in the Government allowance from motor taxes, $77,000. Added together and subtracted from the $536,774, these sums gave $46,874. This sum would have to be found before the mill rate could remain the same as that of last year, Mr. Norman asserted. Estimates will be again considered by the council at 2:15 o'clock next Wednesday afternoon. It was considered quite possible yesterday that the session would continue until the evening.

HONGKONG, April 12 (AP).—Reliable sources here confirmed reports today that General Chiang Kai Shek had inflicted a crushing defeat on the Communist forces after two days of fighting ten miles south of Kweihsiang. The Government claims that 2,000 Reds were slain, including many notorious leaders.

GOOD WILL ON EARTH IS AIM OF MOVEMENT

Lord Baden-Powell Enthusiastic Over Results of Boy Scouts Programme

BLENDING OF RACES ATTENDS THIS WORK

The gathering that crowded the ballroom of the Empress Hotel at the luncheon tendered to Lord Robert Baden-Powell by the Men's Canadian Club yesterday at noon, rose en masse as the founder of the Boy Scout movement started to address them. The World Chief Scout was cheered by the audience.

None of the old-time enthusiasm has left the head of the Boy Scouts for the objects that are set out in that organization, which now circles the world. His address breathed the spirit which he described as pervading the movement which he had originated and which was exemplified in the mission of Jesus Christ on earth, that of peace and good will among men.

HAS BEEN SUCCESSFUL

"It has been no hollow aspiration," said Lord Baden-Powell, "for it has been in practice twenty-five years now and the results are being shown."

Boys who had had training in the Scout movement were coming to manhood now in large numbers, and they were exercising their influence upon the countries to which they belonged. Many millions of them were now men; in America there were 6,000,000 of those who had been through the training given. Those so trained were acting as a leaven in the countries to which they belonged, making for loyalty to their own land and peace and good will to those of other nations.

Lord Baden-Powell paid a compliment to this city when, in expressing his joy at being again on British soil, he added, "I am getting old and am likely to go out soon. If I had another life to live, I feel I could not enjoy it better than right here."

RACES ARE BLENDING

Referring to the jamboree held in Australia, the speaker told of the opportunities he had had to study how the movement was appreciated. On the trip he had visited gatherings of Boy Scouts representing eighteen nations. In all of them was the same spirit of devotion to country and to the world at large. The best sea scouts he had seen were those of the South Sea Islands, where they were all over six feet in height.

THE RIGHT IDEALS

The Chief Scout had come to learn that boys were much the same all over the world. Only when they came in touch, "I was going to say with politicians," did they get away from the natural instincts. It was essential to get the right ideals implanted in them while young, those of unity and loyalty within their own country and friendship to those of other lands.

The boys in the camp during the Australian jamboree were given a severe test owing to the stormy weather. While the caterers' tents went down, none of the tents of the boys so suffered. They were put up right by the boys themselves.

Difference of race and color played no part with the boys. In Australia there was going to be greater elimination of the differences between the parts of that Dominion. In South Africa the Boers and the British boys were coming more and more together for the creation of a South African nation. In India the Boy Scout movement was bringing the tribes together. In Canada any little jealousies should be eliminated.

WANTS HELPERS

Lord Baden-Powell made an appeal for more men to come forward in Canada and assist in the work. Some of the athletic young men would be welcomed to come and assist in the training of the boys.

The speaker was introduced by Herbert Anscomb, M.P.P., president of the club, who recalled the visit thirteen years ago of Lord Baden-Powell. He had still the same vigor of those earlier days, they were glad to find. The relief of Mafeking, thirty-five years ago, which had been defended by the guest of the day, had stirred the nation. In the formation of the Boy Scouts, the most effective contribution to the peace of the world, had attended the efforts of Lord Baden-Powell. Mr. Anscomb declared.

T. W. S. Parsons, assistant commissioner of the Provincial police, who was formerly a member of the South African Constabulary, expressed the thanks of the gathering for the address of the speaker. The work of Lord Baden-Powell in connection with that force was revived, and the development of the spirit of good will between the South Africans and the British which had followed, was alluded to. In two years time this good will had developed largely through the good offices of the speaker of the day. When in 1914 the trying time came, the South Africans joined with the British in the common cause. In this connection, Inspector Parsons paid a compliment to General Smuts.

Conceding Youth—I wonder why that young girl over there looks at me so much?

Young Lady—She has weak eyes, and the doctor told her to relieve them by looking at something green.

SEA POWER IN DEFENCE

In the years 1652-1653 more than half of Great Britain's state income was spent on the Navy. Today more than half Japan's state income is spent on her defence forces. Now Great Britain has reached a point where she must reconsider her naval obligations for the defence of the Empire. Those best qualified to judge what those naval obligations are have made suggestions which can be briefly summarized.
Lord Jellicoe urged, some time ago, that Great Britain should stop making gestures in order to return to security. It is suggested that the personnel of the Navy, reduced from 102,000 in 1924 to 92,300, should be increased. The British Government has been telling the people of the truth of the present peril. It is being urged by naval experts to replace obsolete vessels in the Navy. No one, says Sir Roger Keyes, wants to see another Coronel. Fourteen of Great Britain's cruisers will be overage in 1936, and forty of her destroyers. Lord Beatty advises that Great Britain should be prepared to throw off the shackles of the Naval Treaty of 1930 and raise the number of her cruisers from fifty to seventy, which both he and Lord Jellicoe recognize as the minimum for requirements. Lord Beatty also says that Great Britain must prepare to rebuild her battle fleet, as "it is on the battle fleet that our whole Imperial security now depends."
To meet naval need enough is not being done and will not be done through the annual Naval Estimates. The suggestion is, therefore, that a naval loan should be floated, as in 1889. The figure of £66,000,000 is proposed for this purpose. It is felt that the amount would be subscribed immediately and that from 80 to 90 per cent of it would be paid out in wages and thus help relieve the depressed areas of the North of England and keep the first-class technical man going in employment. This problem of increased naval strength is occupying public attention in Great Britain more and more. Everywhere the question is being asked as to what the National Government is going to do to make good admitted deficiencies in naval defence.

GERMAN YOUTH MOVEMENT

In Germany, the Youth Movement appears to be designed primarily for political purposes. It is, as well, however, based on a policy of national and social reconstruction. It is from Germany that the inspiration for this movement has come; it has spread to Great Britain; it is being discussed in Canada and other countries. The training in Germany is done in labor camps. There are groups of from 200 to 250 young men, or of about 50 women, between the ages of 19 to 25 who are in training for a year in the case of young men, and from three to six months in the case of women. They are drawn from all classes of society. For six hours of each day they have to do constructive manual work of public utility. As well they receive instruction in subjects pertaining to their duties as members of a National-Socialist State.
The claim is that Germany is creating a generation of young men and women "keenly alive to their responsibilities as members of the State," but trained specially in National-Socialist tenets. Loyalty to their Führer is the dominating note of their training. That training is in no sense of a military character, but the fact that their new Anschauung is "dangerously national" makes it certain that in time of crisis they would rush to the defence of the Nazi Government. Only those who are suspicious of Germany's intentions could believe that the Youth Movement there is other than a desire to build up a strong, vigorous and healthy Germany. It is work of reclamation for youth that cannot for the time being find a means of livelihood, and advantage is taken in what is being done to wed youth to the politics now controlling the destiny of Germany.

MEDICAL VIEW OF FASTING

"Eating not wisely but too well is causing most of our illnesses, and the same thing keeps them up." That is the viewpoint of an American doctor, who, when he broke down after sixteen years of busy practice, began to think over the advice he had given his patients and apply it to himself. He has now given the results of his study in a book entitled "A New Health Era," which is being widely read in the United States. One subject with which he deals is that of fasting, a process which he regards, in some measure at least, as conducive to health.
His advice about the best way to approach a fast is to miss one meal a day for a time, then, two meals; then drop the third meal until food loses its imminent significance and becomes remote in thought. It appears that after two or three days without food, when the fasting process is commenced in the way suggested, there is no appetite at all. The person fasting then begins to speculate on why it was ever thought important to have three meals a day, or six meals, as some people have. The writer does not advocate fasting as a general venture, but he intimates that a period of it might well do away with many of the ills to which, through continuous eating, flesh is heir.
In olden days, he says, the fast was the usual mode of correcting bodily ailments. Disease can come from stored and circulated toxins. In that case the fast is the correct way to right the wrong condition. When a person is in full health fasting is unnecessary. There are some people who never wait until sickness develops but who have a fixed period every year, or several times a year, when they engage in fasting, because after each such period there is regeneration and life is lived on a higher plane, materially at least. The writer believes that it is folly to eat when feeling disinclined. No animal does it; even the hog stubbornly refuses food when really ill. It is man alone who thinks he is compelled to eat "to keep up his strength," whether well or ill. Then the writer says:

"Eating not wisely but too well, is causing most of our illnesses, and the same thing keeps them up. Yet it is so simple and easy to eat only when really hungry, and to absolutely refuse all food when not hungry, and it is a wonder that such a mistaken habit ever could have developed as eating when not hungry, and especially taking 'something' when the thought of all food is repugnant to one."

SOCIALISTIC EXPERIMENTS

There are few countries that have not, under the disguise of other names, given a trial to Socialistic ventures. This fact was brought out during a recent discussion in the House of Lords. It was pointed out then that France, Australia, Canada and the United States set up State fleets to compete with private enterprise. Now those fleets have all but disappeared after costing the taxpayers of the various countries huge sums in the losses that accrued. Then again, in Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, France and many other countries there were experiments in the operation of State-owned railways. Many of these still exist, but very few have ever shown a profit to the State. Not only have they been, in the great majority of cases, run at a loss, but at a tremendous loss which still weighs like a nightmare on the taxpayers. In Queensland, banking, mines, hotels and refreshment rooms were run by the Government with losses which brought the State to the verge of bankruptcy.
In Australia there have been experiments in the public ownership of mines, cattle stations, timber yards, electricity, banking, hotels and other enterprises, and the result has been hopeless loss to the taxpayers. It has been so nearly all down the line wherever Socialistic ventures have been tried. Perhaps the whole discussion on the subject of private versus State enterprise was summed up by Lord Lothian when he said: "There are many instances of nationalized industries making losses. That is not merely because of the inefficiency of the bureaucracy—I do not take such a low view of that—but because it is very difficult to estimate public demand and satisfy it at a remunerative profit. In other words, you will put a gigantic burden on the taxpayer without productive assets on which to base interest and sinking fund. You will have a top-heavy society and bankruptcy."

Of schools of thought there is no end; schools of marriage are, however, something new. One of the latter has been started in Vienna, where the sexes are catered to in different rooms and each taught how to retain the affection of husband or wife and at a very moderate fee. Eight cents is the meagre amount to be paid for one lesson in conjugal love; forty cents for a course of six lessons. It may be imagined that the school will be widely patronized. It should have been started in the United States, where divorce is so common and re-marriage after divorce not entirely unknown. In the latter connection, The London Times suggests that the couple in St. Louis, Mo., who have just remarried for the third time might consider Vienna for their honeymoon.

EVOLUTION

When first the soul of man began to feel
A power that lay beyond his hopes and fears,
Invisible, resistless—that could steal
Sweet joy from life—the bitterness of tears
Hid the great sun until a ray of bright
Evidences came to show a spirit world,
And sinewy strength waxed feeble in his sight
Before this certainty to thought unfurled.
Then, like some jewel sparkling from the mine
Where phantom gold too long had loitered,
This shining truth, both human and divine,
Filled the dark places, and creation smiled,
Knowing the purpose of earth's cleansing fire,
As aspiration quickens from desire.
—Minnie Hallowell Bowen, in The Montreal Star.

Friend more divine than all divinities.
—George Eliot.
We never know the true value of friends.
—A. W. Hare.
It very seldom happens to a man that his business is his pleasure.—Dr. Johnson.

Note and Comment

E. R. B. D.

Why, this is very Midsummer madness, Shakespeare.
We are often asked what we are going to write next about Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King or about Hon. Mitchell Hepburn. There is much which can be written about an active or a dynamic force, such as the leader, or rather driver, of the new Liberal Government of Ontario; but the leader of the Dominion Opposition is either a passive or a spent force. He is neither leading nor driving. Mr. Lapointe and Mr. Mackenzie, and some of the rank and file of the Liberal Party, are doing all that. Mr. King is no longer attacking the Ottawa trade agreements. Mr. Reid and Mr. Munn, two representatives of British Columbia constituencies, have taken up the issue where Mr. King left it. Those two loyal British Columbians say the Ottawa agreements have ruined the provincial lumbering industry and the sale of Canadian agricultural products in the markets of Great Britain.

Pondering over these extraordinary statements and comparing them with the facts, the thought which entered our mind was that Nature which produces all things in abundance also produces a few peculiar freaks. If Barnum were alive today, conducting a movie house, and in quest of curios, we are sure that some of our political freaks would be thrown upon the screen. Of course in that event Hon. Mitchell Hepburn would be Exhibit No. One, an almost priceless possession for a showman; but the patriotic Reid and Munn assuredly would command a handsome figure. We believed and said that if Hon. Mitchell Hepburn continued as he had begun as a politician, before the lapse of many months he would be cutting as wide a swath in the affairs of Canada as his forefathers cut with their scythes on the ancestral acres in Elgin County, Ontario.

Hon. Mitchell Hepburn, as a result of his policies or his vagaries, is no longer a mere provincial figure. He is a man of world-wide renown or notoriety. We were among the first to comment upon his advent and to predict that he would either go far in public life or flop with a dull thud. If the public affairs of Canada were subject to the dictates of reason and common sense, which does not seem to be the case at the present time, that career would be as short as it has been sensational, but who can say with surety in these days when so many of the multitude are imagining vain things that the most palpable freak may not be elected to take charge of the affairs of the nation?

The Liberals of the Right and the radicals of the Left are not satisfied with the leadership given by Mr. King. They are demanding a new King. Mr. Hepburn is ambitious and he is aggressive. His policies, like the policies of his friend and fellow-agitator against the alleged power of money and the grasping disposition of those who are custodians of the savings of the thrifty people, Mr. McGeer, have for their objective the abolition of money and the establishment of the phantom of social credit. It is not within the competence of local authorities to drive money out of the channels of trade and business. Only a Dominion Government can do that. Mr. Hepburn's ambition is to become head of a Federal Government and lead a political and economic revolution.

Mr. Hepburn has become such a prominent public figure that the public men of all parts of the Empire are talking about him and the newspapers of Canada and Great Britain are commenting upon his acts. The views of those men and newspapers are more important to readers of The Colonist than anything we can write. We, therefore, quote the following from The Toronto Mail and Empire:
"The Mail and Empire heard yesterday from an unemployed stenographer, who a few months ago fell a victim to Premier Hepburn's axe, and who has now suffered a further disastrous loss through the drastic drop in the price of a five-hundred-dollar Quebec power bond in which he had invested his hard-earned savings. Thousands of other Canadians of small means have been robbed of their savings through the Government's immoral action in repudiating its contracts with the power companies. This is one of the terribly unfortunate results of the election of last year. When democracy goes on the rampage at the behest of vociferous demagogues, people of small means generally have to pay the price in losses which they can ill afford. This at least has been the case in Ontario during the past few months."

The province and the whole Dominion are faced with still more widespread consequences as a result of the Government's ill-advised and temperate course. The Quebec power securities have suffered a disastrous shrinkage in their market value since ministers began to talk repudiation, and the market slumped further yesterday. London, as the world's financial centre, is dismayed at Premier Hepburn's bizarre action, which is going to cost our people tens of millions of dollars in the next few years. A reckless administration has gone to the wall.

far to destroy the credit of a province which has heretofore been irreproachable. The inevitable outcome of what has just taken place is that Ontario's good faith will for long be subject to grave doubt.
Those who lend money can never be sure of getting their money back of receiving the interest due upon it. When we need money for necessary purposes we shall experience difficulty in obtaining it, and we shall probably have to pay excessively high rates for it. The Hepburn Cabinet, has, indeed, dealt the province the severest blow it has ever received.

And the following from The Ottawa Journal:
The London Financial Times, greatest financial journal in England, speaks of British alarm over Premier Hepburn's act of repudiation. It quotes a London financial authority as saying: "If there is to be an element of doubt thrown on contracts merely because there is a change of Government, what can we rely upon?"
This is something with which Mr. Hepburn does not seem to have reckoned. Or about which he was within.

Within the next eighteen months Ontario will require financing in connection with refunding and for other purposes to the extent of about $100,000,000. Part of this may be done with the banks, but assuming that all of it is done through public issues, what will be the consequence? Ontario's creditworthiness will be failure to reduce interest charges, with resulting loss to the provincial treasury of millions of dollars.

Nor will that be all. In the face of repudiation, and with creditor confidence shaken, there will be loss of credit rating in the case of every city, town, village, county and township in the province. Hope of lower interest rates, the very thing upon which we have planned recovery, will have vanished.

This is a tragedy. We have been assured over and over again, and reasonably, that what Canada needed was an abundant supply of cheap credit. And we had commenced getting it. Certainly there was promise that Ontario, in its refunding operations of the next few years, would effect savings on interest charges running into millions. In addition, the municipalities in Ontario were sharing in the enhanced credit rating of the province, were borrowing at the lowest interest rates obtainable in years. Now, in the light of what has been said by Mr. Hepburn this week, the whole trend has been reversed. The promise now is for higher interest rates, heavier fixed charges, greater burdens for taxpayers. What it means for industry and employment need not be labored.

BERING SEA PATROL

Sir.—In reply to Mr. A. D. Martin's letter in today's Colonist—in his original letter of April 7, as printed by The Daily Colonist of April 7, he states in paragraph 3: "The only time we ever asked Great Britain for protection was in the Bering Sea dispute, when instead of protecting us, she sent out warships from Esquimaux and arrested our own Canadian fishermen, confiscated their ships and set the crews adrift."

In today's statement he says: "The only time British warships left Esquimaux was to aid Americans in arresting and confiscating our own Canadian ships and in setting their crews adrift."
The latter statement is quite different to his first one. Apparently now the British patrol vessels did not set the crews adrift themselves, only aided the Americans in doing so. To set the crew of a ship adrift, as understood by seafaring men, is to put the crew in boats in the open sea, or else to land them on an uninhabited island as castaways. That British patrol vessels would stand by and aid the Americans in these illegal acts seems unthinkable. The British navy can only act under orders from the Home Government. How near we were to a clash with the United States over the Bering Sea dispute cannot be realized at the present day.

The matter is ancient history now. The United States, after years of controversy, paid compensation for the destruction of these schooners. It was better so, instead of a war of destruction like the Great War. In the last paragraph of his letter, Mr. Martin states "as far as I am concerned this correspondence is closed." It would have been better if he had never started it, but as far as I am concerned I intend to go on with the matter until the reputation of the British navy has been cleared of the scandalous charge.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist of April 13, 1885.)
The Rain—The welcome rain poured down on Sunday in grateful abundance and refreshment generally. The fruit trees blossomed out more fully, the lilacs sent its fragrance on the breeze, and the sweet birch made the air lovely with its perfume. It also had the effect, no doubt, of putting out the numerous forest fires that were raging on the mainland. It was a most refreshing rain and just when most needed.
Nominations—The nominations for the coming election for the local House of Commons at the police barracks yesterday morning by W. K. Bull, returning officer. Only one candidate attended, and two or three citizens. The following were nominated: Simon Duck, proposed by R. P. Rittet, seconded by James R. McKenzie; Robert Taylor Williams, proposed by Simon Anderson, seconded by A. Langley.
Y.M.C.A. Concert—The local association will give a vocal and instrumental concert in the Brougham Street Hall tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. The proceeds are to be devoted to the general expenses of the association.

Translucent Ugliness
In West Coker, Somerset, amber lighting has been introduced so as to lessen the dangers of road traffic. The girls there complain that in the light the rouge on their cheeks looks black and their lips appear "an awful color."

Pretty Miss, we are so sorry when night falls, and lips are turned Awful-colored and you find them
Fit alone but to be spurned.
We can see in light so mellow
Cheeks as black as ace of spades;
Why should any gallant fellow
Want to kiss so many shades?
But, Dear Girl, if you look seasick,
Healthy tints again will show;
Give up using rouge and lipstick
When you walk in amber glow.

Well, He's Done Something

When Gerald Gratton McGeer, K.C., M.P.P., added the office of mayor of Vancouver to his other duties, he promised that the Terminal City would be free of crime in three months. He has not succeeded in eliminating crime, but he has kept most of it out of the Vancouver press—and that's something.—E.A.M.

Just Too Bad About Her!

Alice Duer Miller, noted author, who wrote "Downs for Roberta," was interviewed the other day by a New York reporter. Questioned about the depression when it was most depressing, she said, "Oh yes, I know of depression. Many's the time I've been down to my last $100 bill."—W.J.H.

Shutting the Barn After the Horse Has Gone

At the corner of Government and Superior Streets, the Provincial Government is fencing in a microscopic, mouldy, miserable and morbid fragment of grass with enormous metal railings solidly set in concrete. Years and years ago the little bit of green was practically trampled to death by busy corner-cutters. Why lock the stable after the horse has run away?—G.B.

Practically Porch-Perching Pheasants

In how many Provincial capitals in Canada could one have the experience, within a mile of the City Hall, of seeing a wild cock pheasant strutting about one's garden? Yet we had this happy privilege yesterday.—M.R.

Failure of Scientists

It's a funny thing, but with Brain Trusts at Washington; and Economic Council in British Columbia, and Ottawa preparing to rope, hog-tie and brand Canadian scientists with the Government mask, the real fundamental problems of daily life have not been solved. Not one of these scientific investigating bodies has devised a ready means of disposing of used safety razor blades.—B.A.M.

Ware Dog-Poisoners

Vic Dog is known among other things for its fine dogs and ardent dog lovers. However, unless the actions of some ruthless person is not curbed, this city will soon be known for its epidemic of dog poisonings. For some weeks past police have been receiving reports of poisonings. The most recent told of two dogs, one a male and the other a female with four four-week-old puppies, being victims. Luckily the animals were saved by a veterinary surgeon.—N.A.C.M.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

THE APPROACH PRINCIPLE

A player who bids "by the rules" will at times find himself holding a hand which contains enough honor tricks to make it well above average, and yet does not exactly fulfill the requirements for an opening suit or no trump bid.
Such hands represent a difficult problem, but usually the way to solve this problem is not to throw up one's hands in despair and pass. When a hand contains more than three honor tricks it is almost always more dangerous to pass and risk losing a game or a part-score than to make an unorthodox bid.

It is equally bad to open the bidding with one no trump, since the greatest value of this bid is to show exact distribution (4-3-3-3) and at the same time to give precise information as to the number of honor tricks held (four, usually, ranging up to five, but no higher).
A bid in a suit, therefore, indicated, and the best suit to use is a three-card minor, clubs or diamonds. This bid is reasonably safe, because five-odd are required for game and partner is very unlikely to raise to game in the minor suit without five trumps and a powerful hand, in which case the contract will probably be made as easily as though the opening hand had a genuine biddable suit.

It must be remembered, however, that partner will not know that the opening bid has been made with only a three-card suit; and if an opponent becomes the final declarer, partner will probably open your suit. A three-card minor suit should not be used to open the bidding unless partner can safely lead the suit from a tenace holding. In other words, bid a three-card minor only if it is as strong as A-K-K or Q-Q-K.

This type of opening bid is an excellent application of the approach principle. By approaching, the best final contract is found, and yet the hand can always be played at no trump if that seems more desirable. In the following deal a proper three-no trump contract was reached, and was made because declarer was wise enough to remember the famous rule of eleven.

South, dealer.

spreads report. This drew from Mr.
Stevens the admission, "I find I must take the responsibility for this information having reached the hands of the press. No one regrets more than I do its premature publication."CORRESPONDENCE READThe Liberal Leader opened another chapter by reading from the correspondence that passed between
Mr. Stevens and Prime Minister R.
B. Bennett, in which the Premier accused his Cabinet colleague of unethical practices as chairman of the price spreads committee.This caused Mr. Stevens to open up. He traced his connection with the famous pamphlet which brought about his resignation, claiming it had been mimeographed at his own expense, and never circulated."Since the price spreads committee was appointed in January, 1934," Mr. Stevens declared, "I have been subject to all manner of criticism. I happen to know thousands of dollars have been spent to try to find something that would discredit me."The Secretary of State entered the lists at this point, claiming the order-in-council appointing the price spreads commission instructed the members to report to the Government, "and not to representatives of the Toronto press." He read extracts from the Bennett-Stevens correspondence indicating the Prime Minister's belief that Mr. Stevens acted unethically when chairman of the price spreads committee.LACKED SUPPORTMr. Stevens jumped to his feet again. Conservative applause in his ears. He read further from his correspondence with the Prime Minister, claiming he had not enjoyed the confidence of his fellow-ministers while dealing with price spread evidence.Then he came to the October day when he resigned from the Cabinet.
His pamphlet was under discussion by Cabinet with an adjournment overnight. To his annoyance, press reports the next day claimed he had been told to resign or apologize to
C. L. Burton, of Toronto, head of the Robert Simpson store."I would not take that position for anybody," exclaimed Mr. Stevens. "I resigned and refused to go back to the Cabinet under those conditions."REIDS HEAD FIX

Employment of Youth Is Subject of Petition From Liberal Women

Immediate Creation of Works Programme Asked for by Ladies in Resolution Passed Yesterday—Endorse Local Council's Action

AN earnest petition to the Federal Government to create a works programme that will absorb the youth of the country in some form of useful occupation; and a protest against the lightness of the sentence passed on the man who was convicted in the Oak Bay Police Court recently on a charge of indecent assault on a girl of ten years formed the subject of resolutions passed at the meeting of the Liberal Women's Forum yesterday afternoon.

THE RESOLUTION

The text of the first resolution was as follows:

"Whereas it is officially acknowledged that Canada is wealthy in natural resources, her provinces in need of roads intercommunicating between province and province; and whereas it is generally conceded that this system of placing our youth in camps far distant from employment contacts has a demoralizing effect on them in that it tends to rob them of vision and hope; be it resolved that this meeting of Liberal women earnestly urge upon the Federal Government the necessity of immediately setting up a works programme to absorb our youth in useful and economically sound occupation."

A copy of this resolution will be forwarded to Ottawa immediately.

In connection with the resolution, which has the hearty and unanimous endorsement of the meeting, an appeal was made for donations of bread, butter, jam, magazines, writing materials, and any other little comforts that might be thought of, the same to be left at the temporary quarters assigned to the young men now housed near the City Market.

"DAMNABLE THING"

"The most damnable thing about it is that our youth, through no fault of their own, are treated worse than criminals," commented one of the members. Other members referred to the earnestness and orderliness of the speakers at the recent meeting of young Liberals. These young men seemed to seek change by constitutional methods, two or three speakers maintained. It would be a perpetual blot on the country if a whole rising generation were ruined by a pernicious system of relief camps.

The meeting endorsed the action of the Local Council of Women, at its last meeting, in protesting against the inadequacy of the sentence imposed in the case of the indecent assault.

The council's action in the matter was one of the special points played up by Mrs. Pilgrim in her regular report as delegate from the forum to the council. Mrs. Pilgrim, Mrs. Matthews, and the forum president, Mrs. J. S. Atkins, were re-elected as delegates to the council. Mrs. Lindgren's name being added.

SOCIAL LEGISLATION

"Social Legislation and the Family" was the subject of an interesting talk by Mrs. Stuart Henderson, who touched upon some of the numerous economic problems that called for remedy. Any further social legislation should be considered in the light of radical and definite economic changes that were taking place in the monetary and governmental institutions.

At all costs there must continue to be maintained pensions, health, and educational and social services. Also there was the great army of unemployed, estimated now to be over 1,200,000 on relief, in addition to which there were thousands more dependent on their families, and others being supported by other forms of charity. This matter of unemployment should be regarded as an emergency matter. Every day that it was allowed to drift was doing irreparable harm to the youth of the country.

"As the wealth of a nation is created by the labor of its people, surely over a million citizens, now unemployed, could if they were working produce still more wealth in a country with great natural resources like Canada," the speaker commented. At the same time Mrs. Henderson said that any scheme that would mean further taxation on the present wage-earners would be unsound and unfair. One of the remedies suggested was that the Bank Act, which provided for creation of emergency currency, might be brought into operation. Private management had proved to be inadequate and incapable of solving the monetary problems, being unable to supply the money necessary to carry on the business of a complex, vast, and growing nation.

Mrs. J. S. Atkins presided and much pleasure was given by the musical programme, which consisted of vocal numbers by Miss Louise Noble, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. John Gough, and by two young pianists, Misses Faith Smith and Norma Braine. At the close of the meeting, Ward 4 Liberal ladies acted as hostesses at tea, which was convened by Mrs. J. Nelson and Mrs. G. W. Chapman, with Mrs. J. de Blaquiere and Mrs. R. Mackenzie presiding at the tea table.

Bapco Bowling Club Has Dance

The Bapco Bowling and Social Club held its annual dance last night in the A.O.F. Hall, when they had as their guests thirty members of the James Island Bowling Club. Prior to the dance the two clubs bowled, there being eight teams in play.

The tables were prettily decorated with vases of daffodils, and teas were served by Mrs. Stacey, assisted by the Misses Dora Rogers, Marjorie Foster, Dorothy Hills and Gladys Rogers. A home-cooking booth in charge of Mr. L. Burrow and Mrs. G. Gilham did a thriving business. Mrs. Bengough, third vice-president from Women's Auxiliary Diocesan Board, spoke on the Women's Auxiliary's work and how to increase membership. She also told of the first Women's Auxiliary which started fifty years ago, with a membership of seven, and has grown continually until today it is a world-wide organization. During the afternoon a programme added much to the enjoyment of those present and included a vocal solo by Miss Dora Rogers, piano solo by Miss Gladys Rogers, recitation by Mrs. Helmsley, and a tiny lot's recitation by little Joyce Helmsley.

J. S. and Mrs. Patterson, Esquimalt Road.

Spiritual Healing Is Subject of W.A. Address

The deep need at the present time of such a vital organization as the Guild of Health was emphasized by Deaconess Simcox, in speaking before the Diocesan Board of Columbia W.A. at the monthly meeting yesterday in St. Saviour's Parish Hall.

The speaker gave much valuable information with regard to the system by which spiritual healing is carried out, and of the confirmatory results obtained. The diocesan president, Lady Lake, who was in the chair, expressed the thanks of the meeting to Deaconess Simcox.

Mrs. Cook Johnson presented the framed and beautifully illuminated certificate, while Mrs. Harper presented Mrs. Temple with a bouquet of flowers.

Two visitors were welcomed at the meeting, Mrs. Bennett, of New Westminster Diocesan Board, and Mrs. Seeley, a life member of Caledonia board, who has given twenty-five years of service in the W.A. at Hazelton.

The treasurer, Mrs. J. R. Hartley, reported that about half the required amount had been contributed to the fund to place the name of the late Mrs. F. M. Norrish in the book of remembrance. Further contributions can be sent to her.

The visiting sick committee for April will be Mrs. J. Cooper and Mrs. C. Coutts. The ladies were pleased to hear that the president, Mrs. W. Wilson, is improving after a serious illness. Mr. Lindley Grease, K.C., sponsors an appeal for good standard books for the Alert Bay School library. Another appeal was made for articles suitable for a fair being held at Alert Bay during Easter Week, which Miss Sill wishes to collect and dispatch next week, and from the magazine secretary, Mrs. Philip, came an SOS, call for sacks in which to ship reading matter to the Columbia Coast Mission ships.

Chief Guide Presents Award to Mrs. Morkill

Mrs. Alan Morkill, British Columbia Provincial Commissioner of Girl Guides, last evening received the highest honor for good service to the whole Guide movement throughout the world when the Chief Guide, Lady Baden-Powell, presented her with the award of the Silver Fish.

The presentation came as a complete surprise to the Provincial Commissioner, following the tradition that it must be given without the knowledge of the recipient. Lady Baden-Powell spoke in sincere appreciation of Mrs. Morkill's work in the cause of Guiding, and expressed the hope that all Guides in the province would feel that this signal honor was one belonging to the province as a whole. Mrs. Morkill, whose delight and surprise left her for the moment at a loss for words, very charmingly thanked the Chief Guide, as three hearty cheers resounded from all Guides and visitors present.

Lady Baden-Powell then addressed the gathering, speaking of Guiding throughout the world and of the tour which she and the Chief Scout and their family have been enjoying. Guiding in Australia and Egypt was specially interesting.

In addition to about seventy commissioners, Guides and members of the local association, the following guests were present: Lady (Percy) Lake, Lady Barnard, Mrs. K. C. Symons, Mrs. A. D. Muskett, Mrs. Walter C. Nichol, Mrs. F. J. D. Pemberton, Mrs. Watts, Mrs. Stewart Williams, Mrs. Adams (Vernon), Miss Ashworth, Mrs. Barclay, Miss Gladys Davies and Mrs. Moxon, of Vancouver, Deputy Provincial Commissioner.

Refreshments brought a most delightful evening to a close, one which will long remain in the memory of those privileged to be present.

Up-Island Guides Extend Greeting

DUNCAN, April 12. — Duncan Guides, Brownies and Rangers extended an enthusiastic welcome to Lady Baden-Powell yesterday, on the occasion of her second visit to Duncan. Lady Baden-Powell, accompanied by Mrs. Alan Morkill, provincial commissioner, arrived at Queen Margaret's School soon after 4 o'clock, where she inspected the first Duncan Guides and Brownies, visited the Guide Camp in the school grounds, and inspected the unique and lovely log chapel in connection with the school.

After tea at the school, the party proceeded to the Guide Hall, which Lady Baden-Powell had visited during its construction. Here she was received by the First Cowichan Company under their captain, Miss W. Dawson-Thomas; the First Cowichan Rangers and the First Cowichan Brownies under Brown Owl Mrs. E. W. Neel. After displays by various patrols, Lady Baden-Powell gave a short talk and departed, amid cheers and a send-off to the company yell.

Mrs. Kinloch, of Shawigan, divisional commissioner, and Misses Enid and Coralie Fraser, of Chemainus, Guide captain and Guide lieutenant, were present, and Joan Willis, a member of First Cowichan Company, who has been ill in hospital for many months, was brought over to the hall and had the privilege of meeting the Chief Guide.

WILL CONSIDER GREAT SECRETS

Rev. Dr. Clem Davies to Give Answers to Many Queries at the Empire

On Sunday morning at Dr. Clem Davies' services at the Empire Theatre the following questions will be answered: What is the great secret which will some day be revealed? What are the three words which belong to the religious philosophies of the past? What are the great occult secrets? Are all the secrets of the universe revealed in one master symbol? What is the first great secret? What is the great secret of the natural world? How long is eternity? Does evil exist as an abiding force? What is the greatest secret of science? What is the secret of the broad margin? Who is the master spirit? Who is the angel of the covenant? What is the master secret of all progress?

At night Dr. Davies will answer the following questions: What is the significance of the poor attendance of Victoria people at the reception of Their Excellencies? Is it not a matter for criticism that when so many people are destitute in the Empire that lavish preparations be made for the jubilee celebration? Is it legal for a Council to refuse the use of the municipal hall for a ratepayer's meeting and to charge for light, heat and janitor service, if such is held, when ratepayers already have paid for the same? Why will not the Liberals find a Federal riding in B.C. for Mr. McGee's candidacy? What would you do with your vote at the next election if you could not use it for the old line parties, nor be sure about voting C.C.F.? Gerry McGee says: "I firmly believe that this is the last year of the depression." Do you agree? Many people think that the Boy Scouts movement is a step to militarism; what is your opinion of the movement? Is Britain prepared for the coming military conflict? Indicate events which are to take place in this generation laid down in the Scriptures. What possible significance can a pyramid on the desert of Egypt have for Christian men and women today?

FORMER PASTOR AT CENTENNIAL

Rev. G. C. F. Pringle Will Preach in Evening—Sea Cadets Parade Morning

REV. G. C. F. PRINGLE

Sunday will be a very interesting day at Centennial United Church, Gorge Road. Rev. George C. F. Pringle, who is so well known as a Yukon missionary, as an overseas chaplain, as a marine sky pilot and, until he became ill, minister of Centennial for about two years, will preach in the evening at 7:30. As Mr. Pringle will return on the night boat to Vancouver, this will be the only opportunity his many friends in Victoria will have to see and hear him.

In the morning, at 11, the Sea Cadets, who have been doing so well in competition, will hold a church parade. Rev. C. G. MacKenzie will deliver a special address on "Ships," and the Sunday school children's choir, under the leadership of Miss Eileen Foster, will sing. An anthem, "God So Loved the World" (Stainer) will be the adult choir's contribution.

The music for the evening service will be a solo, "Man of Sorrows" (J. Adams), by J. Almond, and Lord Henry Somerset's hymn-anthem by the choir, "There Is a Green Hill." On Good Friday, April 19, at 8:15 p.m. Maunders' Easter Cantata will be presented by the church choir, under the direction of J. W. Buckler, with Mrs. Paul Green at the organ.

To Talk on Conference At Stresa

"The Stresa Conference and the Number 666: Israel Shall Dwell Alone, What Will Be the Outcome?" Under this caption E. E. Richards will speak on the present phase of world politics, from the British-Israel point of view, in the Campbell Building, Douglas Street, on Monday at 8 o'clock.

The question, also, of the mandated territories, the return of which Germany, backed by her now recognized military strength, is preparing to actively demand, will be dealt with. Will British statesmanship prove equal to the tremendous responsibility and demands made upon it, and will Canada support Great Britain in the issue?

COUNCILLOR WILL SPEAK ON "SAUL"

W. R. Woods to Address British-Israel Gathering on Tuesday Evening

Councillor W. R. Woods will address the Victoria and District Association of the British-Israel World Federation (Canada) next Tuesday evening at the Foresters' Hall, at 8 o'clock. His address, entitled "Saul, First King of Israel," will be the first of a series of studies on the kings of Israel that Councillor Woods will give at intervals during the next few months.

In discussing King Saul, the first King of Israel, the speaker will endeavor to show why Israel desired a king; the kind of king they requested; the type of man Saul was; his disobedience of Divine commands, and final rejection.

Life After Death IS SUNDAY THEME

"The Problem of Life After Death Re-examined" is the subject of the Sunday night lecture by the Christadelphians at the Shrine Temple, View Street. Reference will be made to the "Secret Doctrine," "Spiritualism" and the "Neo-Platonic Teaching"; also the testimony of Moses, Job, the Hebrew Psalter and prophets, showing the effect of the old Hebrew faith on the teaching of Jesus, and the hope of primitive Christianity, and wherein these latter differ from post-apostolic theology, as reflected in modern orthodox Christian faith.

Sin, Disease And Death to Be Discussed

"Are Sin, Disease and Death Real?" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday. The golden text is: "Heal me, O Lord, and I shall be healed; save me, and I shall be saved: for Thou art my praise" (Jeremiah xvii, 14).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "O give thanks unto the Lord; for He is good; for His mercy endureth for ever" (I Chronicles xvi, 34).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Sickness, sin and death are not the fruits of Life. They are inharmonies which Truth destroys."

REVUE TO CLOSE AT EMPIRE TODAY

"Hi-Lites of Rhythm" Opened yesterday for Two-Day Engagement in City

"Hi-Lites of Rhythm" opened a two-day engagement yesterday at the Empire Theatre. There will be four performances today. The acts included magical feats, juggling, singing and dancing routines.

One of the commendable features of the production was the smart costumes, and the fact that the six-girl chorus kept in time and in step. This does not happen very often, but the chorus showed it knew its business.

"The Four Rounders" were heard

"Sequoia" Co-Stars Deer and Puma—Unusual Animal Shots Are Features

The silver screen has immortalized the names of Crawford, Dressler, Beery and many others who have done outstanding work in pictures.

Likewise, Strongheart the dog, Rex the wild horse, Jiggs the chimpanzee, and the silly goose, "Bozo," have fallen into the animal hall of fame.

These animals have, perhaps, done more for their laurels inasmuch as they have had to acquire the minds of human beings to portray their parts.

The latest animals to bid for this high honor are "Malibu" and "Gato," who are playing opposite each other in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's remarkable nature picture, "Sequoia" (pronounced "See-quo-yah").

This picture depicts the lives of these two animals made mortal enemies by nature but inseparable friends by Jean Parker, youthful nature lover.

Malibu is a great buck who is king of the deer in the forest. Gato is a full-grown puma who forever fights for his pal, Malibu.

The acting of these two animals is phenomenal. They seem to have innate talents for performance in front of the cameras. Each one is natural in all his movements in the many scenes of actual animal life photographed and recorded.

COLUMBIA After a notably successful run of three days, that rollicking comedy of family life, "The Party's Over," leaves the Columbia Theatre screen tonight. Stuart Erwin and Ann Sothern are featured in the picture and today offers the last opportunity to see yourselves as others see you.

PLAYHOUSE Bing Crosby, who heads the cast of Paramount's "Here Is My Heart," now at the Playhouse Theatre, is Hollywood's most ardent radio fan. The Crosby home is equipped with six separate receiving sets and there are two in his dressing-room at the studio and one in each of his automobiles.

DOMINION "The Good Fairy," a brilliant comedy, is now at the Dominion Theatre. Margaret Sullivan and Herbert Marshall, two of filmdom's most popular players, are presented as co-stars of "The Good Fairy." Universal's motion picture adapted by Preston Sturges from the rollicking stage success by Ferenc Molnar. It was played on Broadway by Helen Hayes.

MASS BUYING REPORT IS TABLED IN HOUSE

Encouragement of the co-operative movement.

Establishment of a fisheries control board with the following duties:

(a) To make every possible effort to raise the price to the fisherman.

(b) The elimination of misrepresentation of varieties and grades of fish as now prevailing in the retail markets in Canada.

(c) The establishment of a higher standard of quality of fish marketed in Canada by regulating the conditions under which fish, and especially fresh fish, may be handled.

(d) The establishment of adequate inspection of grades as affecting products for the Canadian and export markets.

(e) The elimination of consignment shipments.

UNFAIR COMPETITION

(f) The elimination of cut-throat competition and other unsound trade practices. The direction of surplus production of fish through channels calculated to bring the most profitable financial return.

(g) A thorough survey of conditions surrounding, as well as the disabilities retarding development of existing and potential export markets.

Local advisory committees to assist the control board: At least five, as follows: On fresh fish; on dried and cured fish; on the herring fisheries; on the pickled fish industry; on lobsters, salmon, etc.

The Dominion Government should give early and favorable consideration to the establishment of a limited fund for the extension of credit to fishermen for the purchase, or repair of equipment, gear, etc.

Official encouragement to primary producers to organize for co-operative marketing.

RETAIL DISTRIBUTION

The practices and problems discussed in this chapter are those which would fall under the purview of the Federal Trade and Industry Commission. Our recommendations, therefore, in connection with distribution generally, will be found under the general recommendations of Chapter IX.

Certain specific recommendations are, however, made in this chapter with respect to the consumer's co-operative movement, as follows:

Consideration of the possibility of Federal legislation for the incorporation and regulation of consumers' co-operatives, enabling them to do business under the same conditions as any federally-incorporated company.

Prohibition of the use of the word "co-operative" in any trade mark or as part of any trade name except by a bona fide co-operative company, organized as such.

THE CONSUMER

Consumer standards: Marking, labelling, etc.

Extension of the functions of the National Research Council to include the preparation of consumer standards and specifications and the analysis and testing of consumer products.

Creation of a consumer commodity board, as a section of the Federal Trade and Industry Commission, with the following duties:

(a) The establishment of consumer standards. A list of suggested products for immediate attention is given.

(b) Enforcement of such standards as might be established.

(c) Publication of findings of non-conformity to standards set up of harmful or injurious substances, or of excessive price spreads.

Authorization of the Research Council to analyze or test products on request, and at a charge to cover expenses. Such analyses or tests are for consumers alone and it should be provided that the results cannot be used for advertising or commercial purposes.

TRADE DICTIONARY

In order to prevent adulteration, the National Research Council should be instructed to compile a dictionary of trade names of products which shall be accepted as all commercial transactions in courts of law.

The registered name and place of business of the true manufacturer of a product should be required upon the product, whether it is sold under his brand or not.

A term "Canada Standard" should be adopted exclusively for products conforming to official standards as established.

All grade designations to be numerical, as Grade 1, Grade 2, etc. Exceptions, in favor of alphabetical grades, may be provided when necessary. No more than one grade should ever, under any conditions, be permitted above Grade 1 or Grade "A," and this only for a very small percentage of the product.

Grade designations should be unmistakably set out on the product.

In the case of products of which a knowledge of the ingredients or formula is necessary to their proper use, such should be shown.

WRAPPER WEIGHTS

The principle of net weight should be modified to permit the inclusion of paper bags or wrapper in the weight of bulk goods sold over the counter and weighed by the merchant at the time of sale.

The maximum weight to be permitted for paper bags or wrappers should be fixed by order-in-council in relation to the weight of the contents.

In the case of any product liable to shrinkage through evaporation, the "net weight" should be interpreted as the anhydrous weight. Standards of moisture content for all commodities should be determined by the competent department of the Government and published by order in council.

The number of inspectors in the weights and measures inspection service should be increased.

DRASTIC PENALTIES

Penalties for breach of the act should be more severe.

Provision should be made for the standardization by order-in-council of the quantities in which any package commodity, whether a food product or not, may be sold.

For foodstuffs sold by weight or volume, packages and containers should be permitted only in the sizes presently authorized under the Meat and Canned Foods Act.

Net weight should be clearly marked on all goods, whether food products or not, which are packaged in advance of sale by manufacturer, wholesaler, or retailer.

The only exception should be bulk goods sold over the counter and weighed by the retailer in the presence of the customer.

Certain exceptions, as outlined, should be permitted to the requirements suggested under 6, 7 and 8 above.

The regulations proposed above should apply to all imported goods, with certain exceptions as specified.

MISLEADING ADVERTISING

Amendment of Sub-Section 2, Section 406, Criminal Code, by the deletion of the sentence: "Provided further that in any prosecution under this sub-section, the case may be dismissed if it is established to the satisfaction of the court upon proper evidence that the accused acted in good faith."

Any statement or guarantee of performance, efficacy or length of life of any product, to be made on an offence in itself unless based upon an adequate and proper test, such as a test by the National Research Council or other competent department of the Government.

STATE CONTROL

General recommendations: 1. Federal Trade and Industry Commission structure:

(a) To consist of five members appointed by the Governor-in-Council as a semi-autonomous board under the President of the Privy Council.

(b) Its status both in its authority and in its relation to the responsible minister and Parliament, to be similar to that of the Board of Railway Commissioners.

Functions: (a) Administrative: Rigorous administration of an amended Combines Investigation Act, for the purpose of retaining and restoring competition whenever possible.

On instruction from the Governor-in-Council, to regulate monopoly, when competition cannot or should not be restored or enforced.

On instruction from the Governor-in-Council, to sanction and supervise agreements from industrial self-government.

UNFAIR PRACTICES

To prohibit unfair competitive practices:

(a) Such practices should not be set out in detail in the act setting up the commission, but a general definition of unfairness should be included.

(b) A definition for this purpose is suggested.

(c) Certain practices such as discriminatory discounts, rebates and allowances, territorial price discrimination and predatory price-cutting, should be included within this definition.

That Body of Yours

(By James W. Barton, M.D.)

THE ORGANISM CAUSING COLDS MAY TRAVEL MANY MILES

A ship may touch at a port for or to deliver freight, and a few days after the ship leaves an epidemic of colds or other infectious ailments breaks out among the inhabitants of the port; yet not a single passenger or member of the crew had been ashore.

There is no question but that the epidemic was caused by the arrival of the ship, and you may wonder how a cold could be transferred without those on the ship coming in close contact with the inhabitants of the port.

Recent experiments have shown that the organism causing the common cold along with the organisms of pneumonia, scarlet fever, and septic (poisonous) sore throat, will live for more than forty-eight hours suspended in mid-air. During this period they might easily be carried for many miles.

According to Dr. W. L. Holman, Professor of Bacteriology, University of Toronto, the exact cause of the common cold has never been found. The organism cannot be distinguished under the lens of the most powerful microscope that man has been able to procure so far.

"We carry a certain amount of the poison or virus of the cold around with us all the time, but it is only when our system receives a shock such as a rapid change in temperature and moisture in the atmosphere when we step out of our homes on a winter's day without the precaution of donning enough heavy clothing, that our resistance is lowered and the virus of cold has the opportunity of getting in its work."

It is admitted that keeping the body or the blood warm enables your disease fighters in the blood (the white corpuscles) to fight harmful organisms more successfully. Thus taking Epson salts to rid the bowel and blood of wastes, and using baking soda or other alkali to make the blood more alkaline, and also making the patient perspire is considered the best treatment for the common cold.

Keeping the home too hot and too dry will also irritate the lining of the nose and throat and cause head colds.

Remember, then, that we have in us and about us the organisms of the common cold. We may avoid the symptoms by watching diet and intestine, and also the temperature and moisture of our homes, offices or factories.

VICTORIA OFFICIALS DEMAND HARDWICK RESIGN

Joe Louis Scores Technical Kayo in Decisive Fashion

Sensational Negro Fighter Stops Roy Lazer in Third Round After Administering Terrific Beating—Over 17,000 Attend Massacre—Max Baer Is Witness From Ringside

CHICAGO, April 12 (AP).—Joe Louis, Detroit's candidate for a shot at Max Baer's world heavyweight championship, devoted less than three rounds to scoring a technical knockout triumph—his eighteenth straight in professional warfare—over Roy Lazer, of Paterson, N.J., tonight in the Chicago Stadium.

Louis, after smashing a left hook to the chin that knocked Lazer flat for the count of nine in the third round, smothered him with right and left smashes to the chin that bounced Lazer on the floor again for the nine count.

When Lazer staggered to his feet, Louis coolly measured him with a couple of lefts to the head and knocked him flat with a terrific right to the chin to register his fourteenth knockout in eighteen professional battles.

The result was no surprise to 17,826 spectators who paid $42,167.50 to witness the fight.

BAER WATCHES

With Max Baer watching from the ringside, Louis finally caught up with Lazer in the third round. After flooring the Paterson brawler twice for counts of nine, Louis ended the uneven battle with a terrific right-hand blow to the chin. Lazer first fell into the ropes, then attempted to get up, but fell over on his back while the count reached six. When the count reached six, a towel came fluttering from Lazer's corner. The third round had gone two minutes and twenty-eight seconds.

Louis weighed 196½ to 192 for Lazer.

Buddy Baer, kid brother of the world champion, knocked out Corn Griffin, rugged Columbus Ga., veteran, in the second round of a four-rounder.

ARMORE COURSE OPEN FOR PLAY

After being closed since December last owing to weather conditions, the Armore Golf Course, West Saanich Road, is again open to green-fee players. Temporary greens are still being used, but the new grass greens will be in play in a few weeks' time. The course, beautifully situated, has, since its opening a few years ago, attracted a large number of players.

Reaches Allan Cup Ice Final

East will soon meet West along the Canadian amateur hockey front, with the coveted Allan Cup, which goes yearly to Canada's senior amateur champions, as the prize. Along with the trophy this year goes a trip to the 1936 Olympic Games as the Dominion representatives. Thus competition is keener than ever. ADDISON WINS ON MAINLAND

Victoria Runner Scores Victory in 600-Yard Event at New Westminster

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., April 12 (CP).—Joe Addison, stocky blond middle-distance star from Victoria, hung up the only Vancouver Island victory of the New Westminster indoor track meet, which concluded here tonight, when he won the 600 yards event.

Addison, pacing himself well, overtook Don McCormick, of Vancouver, with a nice sprint near the finish. His time was 1:22.1-5.

Chuck Cunningham, Addison's teammate, was nosed out by Hal Odlum, of Vancouver, in the 1,000 yards run. Odlum won the event in 3:02.2-5, with Cunningham barely a stride behind.

The Vancouver Athletic Club relay team won the invitation mile relay, with College of Puget Sound second and Victoria Y.M.C.A. third.

O. Bentley, of Victoria, and Addison placed second in their respective heats of the 40-yard dash, but were eliminated in the final.

LOCAL CAGE BOSSES IN FAVOR OF HAVING MAINLANDER OUSTED

Recent Actions of Provincial Treasurer and Western Vice-President Forces Strong Resolution Being Forwarded to Vancouver—Will Not Affiliate Next Year Under Conditions

Walter Hardwick, treasurer of the British Columbia Basketball Association and Western vice-president of the Canadian body, is on the "spot" again. At tonight's special meeting of the Victoria and District League, the executive and a strong deputation of team representatives have demanded his resignation from the provincial organization on account of his recent actions over the British Columbia play-offs and his attitude towards Referee Alan Le Marquand, whom he ruled out of the Western series which opens here Monday night with the Winnipeg Toilers facing the Blue Ribbons.

Officials of the local league have investigated the actions of Hardwick fully and have decided that if he continues in office next year they will withdraw their affiliation with the British Columbia association. The league has threatened to make this move before, but is determined to go through with it when the 1935-36 season rolls around. President Jack Taylor stated after the meeting.

LOCAL RESOLUTION

The meeting passed the following resolution:

"That we, the Victoria and District Basketball Association, consider our local referee capable of handling the forthcoming series, being qualified by British Columbia officials, and object to the discrimination shown in the selection of officials for this series. Also we feel that W. H. W. Hardwick is using his influence to the detriment of basketball in Victoria."

A letter was sent to Ken Walton, secretary of the provincial association, last night, stating that Hardwick's resignation would be welcomed in the near future.

Ever since the British Columbia series between the Blue Ribbons and University of British Columbia the Mainland official has been taking a fall out of Victoria. He severely criticized the actions of the fans at the games here, not knowing that some of the Varsity-rooters were more to blame than Victorians, and then he ruled Referee Alan Le Marquand "inconsistent" to handle further British Columbia fixtures, despite the fact that he held a certified card from the provincial association, a ruling that has caused considerable agitation among officials and fans alike.

WOLVERINES CRUSH ROYALS IN CUP SEMI-FINAL

Halifax Scores 7-2 Victory to Capture Eastern Ice Crown

Winners Speed Through Weakened Montreal Team in Second Period to Score Five Goals—
Eight Penalties Given in First Session—
Face Port Arthur Bearcats in Final

HALIFAX, April 12 (CP)—Halifax Wolverines bounded over Montreal Royals into the Allan Cup final tonight with a crushing 7-2 victory that gave them the Eastern Canadian Amateur Hockey title on blood-spattered ice.

After an opening period with eight penalties, including one major, the Halifax pack sprang at a weakened Royal squad in the second and snatched a lead that sent them into the Canadian title series against Port Arthur Bearcats, starting here Monday night.

Bitterness of the struggle was indicated early in the first period when Frankie Graham, Wolverines defenceman, went off for roughing with Donnelly.

Lawlor poked the rubber into the Montreal cage from a scramble, but the whistle had him beaten by seconds. Graham took another penalty for roughing and Dave Neville followed him for tripping Mosher. Then the Wolverines' captain was sent off for chopping Watson on the eye with his stick.

TEN STITCHES NEEDED

Rising from blood-spattered ice, Watson took a swing at his assailant. As a long pow wow began, the Royal trainer said his injured centreman would need about ten stitches to close the wound.

Donnelly was penalized for having illegally checked Mosher in the first place. Neville's penalty was extended for leaving the box, and Royals started the last two minutes with four men against four. Graham returned for the eager Wolves, but they failed to score. Just before the bell, Parquharson was chased for bumping Graham.

Watson, head bandaged, was back on the job as the second period opened. Three valiant Royals were opposing five Wolverines.

Just seventeen seconds after the face-off, Lennan passed Watson and slipped the rubber to Lawlor, who walloped in the first goal of the game for Halifax.

Hudson made it 2-0 only twenty-eight seconds later on passes from Lawlor and Ferguson. Both teams were at full strength when Mosher, who had served a five-minute penalty, dashed from end to end and battled in the third corner.

Royals recovered nicely and Donnelly scored Montreal's first goal on a pass from Watson.

INCREASES LEAD

Lawlor gave Wolves their fourth marker from a scramble in front of the Montreal goal when Herman Murray sprang into goal duty for Seguin, who had slipped out of position. Lennan made it 5-1 four minutes later. The play was held up again as Wolverines carried off their injured captain. A crack on his old knee wound had laid Mosher out. Herman Murray was chased for hooking Shields with his stick.

Starting the third period one man short, Wolverines knew their captain was out of the game for the rest of the season, the inside cartilage of his left knee broken.

A series of spirited attacks on the now defending Wolverines brought results when O'Connor slapped in Montreal's second counter on the rebound of Parquharson's hard drive. Lennan wiped that off less than two minutes later when he took McGlashen's short pass to put a scorcher between Seguin's legs.

Soon after the next face-off, McGlashen carried the rubber over the blue line again and slipped one to Hudson, who drove in the seventh for Halifax.

Western Bodies Are Given Grants

HALIFAX, April 12 (CP).—Decision to give the three Western branches of Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia a grant of $200 in addition to the regular $200 grant given to all branches this year was reserved by the finance committee of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association today.

Because the original grant would be used to defray costs of an intermediate championship series between the three provinces, a series not carried on by any other branches in the association, the Western branches asked for an additional grant of the same amount to foster junior hockey in their districts.

TO STRETCH A POINT

We stretch a point in the application of the Constitution of the United States. We stretch a point in considering a man's qualifications for membership in a club, for instance.

We stretch a point in varied interpretations and acts; but in no instance, probably, is the point stretched consciously in the sense in which the term was originally applied.

"Points" was the name of the detachable laces with which practically all ornate ancient garments were decorated.

When a person grew stouter than he was when his clothes were made for him, in the interests of sartorial elegance, the points would be stretched, so that the coat or dress would fit properly.

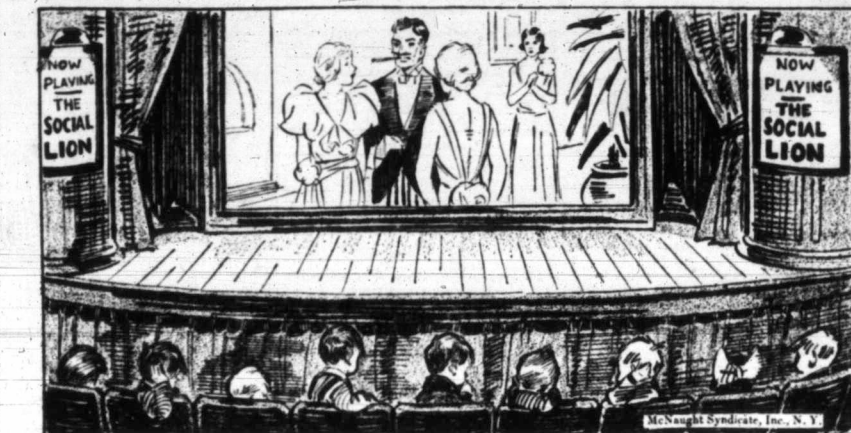

In other words, points which, strictly speaking were not right, were elasticated, so to speak and made to serve—which is what we do today, when we stretch a point to suit an occasion.

A teacher was taking a class of boys and said: "What are the Epistles?" One boy put his hand up. Teacher: "Well, what?" Boy: "The wives of the Apostles."

The Beautiful Derelict

by Evelyn Wells

CHAPTER XII

"This room is fine," Stone said to Barry's father. "Very different from your brother's, yet equally interesting. I gather your brother has traveled a great deal, and you have been more of a stay-at-home."

"We took a long trip together many years ago. A cruise it was, through the Malay Archipelago. Most interesting it was, but I think Pat enjoyed it more than I did. I disliked the heat of the tropics and the primitive ways of living, and all that, but Pat just revelled in the new scenes, the odd customs of the natives and all that sort of thing. Then, soon after we came home, I married, and that put an end to our traveling together. Pat went off alone once or twice, but he said it was no fun without me. Pat is a born sailor and loves a cruise of any sort, short or long. He and Barry were planning to go on one this Fall in the Mad Anthony. I wish Pat would find some sea-loving chum and go off with him. I'd rather stay at home. Now, Mr. Stone, do your searching. I'll leave you here alone if you like. This is my sitting-room. I don't call it study or library, for I am not a student. The rest of the adjoining rooms are mine—bedroom, bathroom and workroom."

"What kind of work?"

"Oh, I'm a sort of handy man about the house. I mend broken furniture, or broken pottery. I rebind books and I tinker about at any odd job. I have a leaning toward machinery and I dabble with electric appliances."

"You do, indeed?" And Stone looked around the big room, in which were a small carpenter shop, a little bindery and an electric section, which was fenced off from the other departments.

"I like carpentering myself," he said, "and this complete lot of sharp, shining tools has a charm for me. Do you make things?"

"No—I only—that is, I just fiddle with things. Try to improve on some patented contraption—they're mostly so inadequate. And I mend things for Miss—the maids are always breaking something."

"Yes, I see. Now, Mr. Dan, your son's rooms are at the other end of the house?"

"Yes; shall we go there now?"

"I think so, unless it is too painful a duty for you?"

"No; I like to be where my boy has been, where he slept and worked and loved. He was a devoted lover, Mr. Stone."

"I'm sure he was. I wonder if Miss Holt was the right girl for him."

"No, she was not. They were in love, but it was a silly, modern sort of romance, all gushing and chaffing and no real love."

"Of course I do. But don't let yourself get dated, as the youngsters call it. Barry was—how old was he?"

"Twenty-five."

"And today, young people of twenty-five are widely experienced, and they know what they want. The affair of your son and Miss Holt was doubtless perfect, as they saw it."

"Yes, that's what Barry always told me—that I must try to see with his eyes."

"They had walked the full length of the front upper veranda, past Stone's rooms and several others, and came to Barry's rooms, which were just below those of his Uncle Patrick."

"Interesting rooms they were. Not filled with college penants and pictures, not devoted to the paraphernalia of any fad or pursuit, but big, airy, wholesome rooms, showing fine taste in furnishings and appointments, and a love of beauty that caused all to be harmonious and pleasing."

"The room that best expressed Barry was his library. The boy had been a book-lover, and his shelves were filled with worth-while literature. Not rare books, though he had a number of first editions, but a sound reading library, a goodly lot of belles lettres, and many books of travel and adventure."

"Splendid selection," said Stone, taking them in at a glance. "His own?"

"Yes, for the most part. Pat and I helped him at first, but he soon learned to choose. We're a bookish family. I suppose you resent the chandler?"

"Only Barry's whim. He insisted he had furnished the room right up to it."

"So he did," and Stone glanced about approvingly.

"They were speaking of an old-fashioned crystal chandelier, whose sparkling prisms tinkled against one another in the sea breeze that came in at the windows. It was a massive specimen of that old-time ornamentation, and festoons of faceted glass depended from the corona-like structure."

"It has been readjusted," and Stone looked at the ornate medallion centrepiece of plaster above it.

"Yes; it was taken from the Inn hall, and as it was so large, we raised the ceiling of this room to get proper height for it. We did that in several instances. It leaves a sort of half-room or loft above, but we've twice as many rooms as we can use, even with guests. There's lots of waste space in the house."

"Shall you stay here now?"

"I think so. We're not quite sure. Pat and I have talked it over—but I think we'll continue to come here. I think, after a time, Pat will want to go for a cruise in the yacht. He and Barry were planning one. I suppose I shall go with him."

"All these foreign trophies are fine. And a lot of them are from the Malay Archipelago, I see. You've been there?"

"Where are you?" came a querulous voice, and Inspector Cox came into the room. "Oh, here you are. My heavens! What is that?"

Pat, who followed the inspector, laughed at the horror on the man's face.

"It was caused by the hideous looking thing Stone was examining—a carved wooden image, not much more than a foot in height, but of an ugliness beyond description. The head, huge out of all proportion to the dwarfed body, showed a ferocious frown and a menacing grin of bared teeth. One long, skinny arm was raised in a threatening gesture and the other rested on a beautifully carved shield. The whole was on a pedestal, but the fine carving and superb modeling could not fill the eye to the exclusion of the terror that lurked in the heathenish thing.

"Know what it is, Mr. Stone?" asked Pat.

"Yes; I've been to Malay lands. And Papua was a favorite hunting ground for me. This is a Papuan korowaar."

"A what?" Cox goggled his eyes.

"That's right," Pat declared; "a korowaar, which is an earthly habitation for the spirit of a dead man. It is also a means of communication between the dead man and his living friends."

"And not seldom makes trouble for those same friends later on," Stone added.

"You'll note more Malay junk about, then," Pat went on. "You liked the country?"

"I was there only a short time," Stone told him. "Had hardly time to like or dislike it. But on the whole I'm not fond of the tropics. I think they should be given over to jungle life and insect activities."

Dan laughed at this. "Their insects are sure enough active," he admitted. "But these amulets are more engrossing, to my mind, than the miserable korowars. Look at these."

He drew their attention to some small sticks, perhaps six inches in length, each carved in a general representation of a human figure. At least there was a head at the top, and then the lines slithered off into almost anything. But they were of great value to the people for whom they were made. For they were guards to health and safety on long and dangerous voyages; they were preventives of illness; they were security against the evil designs of Manu, the malicious spirit; indeed, there was one for every disaster that could come to mortal man.

Pat took up the tale, and gave a little more information about the Papuans, to which Cox listened avidly, and Stone nodded his affirmation.

"A wonderful collection," Stone said, at last; "no dead wood in it, no common, worthless junk; just specimens of the best and rarest curios of the place. Fine lot."

"Did Barry collect these?" asked Cox. "Was he ever in Papua?"

"No," said Barry's father, "Pat and I collected these things. From time to time, we gave Barry whatever ones he asked for. Until, finally, we concluded to put all our best bits in here together, and call it a collection. But of them all I think Barry loved best this bird."

And he designated a beautiful golden oriole, which had been stuffed by a master hand and looked for all the world like a live bird.

Inspector Cox, who knew little of geography and less history, asked timidly if he might see a Malay kris. He had read of such things.

Pat opened a drawer after another of a tall cabinet and showed him all manner of weapons, from dull, deadly looking spears and horrible, murderous parangs, to kris, decorated with intricate designs of gold and silver and ivory, until their sinister suggestion was lost in their rare beauty.

Stone took in all these things swiftly, and then walked off by himself, into Barry's other rooms. They seemed only the living rooms of a modern young man, orderly of habit and of correct tastes.

A small smoking room, evidently much used by Barry and his chums, interested the investigator. It seemed to him, that whatever was to be found, if anything, was to be found here.

He was looking for nothing definite, he had no hunch, but somehow the very intimacy of the little room indicated a secret.

Yet he found nothing. But as he looked about, he saw one smallish picture that hung on the wall, that didn't hang straight. It was his habit to straighten any picture that needed it and as he did so, a tiny package dropped from behind the picture, which he picked up and put in his pocket.

Without much hope of finding anything of importance, opened the little packet. It contained four or five tiny capsules, with no label or marking to tell of their contents. He put the parcel in his pocket, just as someone came into the room, and he looked up to see Mrs. Mingle facing him with no sign of approbation on her hard, strong face.

She was of the George Elliot type, tall, gaunt, bony, and quite evidently as Puritan as Plymouth Rock itself. Efficiency was stamped on her countenance and capability showed in her every action. No waste motion for her, but economy of attention to every duty or interest in her life.

"I'd prefer you not to touch Mr. Barry's things," she said, resentment sounding in the words she spoke.

"Sorry, Mrs. Mingle," Stone told her, with a sympathetic smile. "I know just how you feel, but perhaps you don't fully realize that I am only doing my duty. You want us to find the criminal who brought about this awful tragedy, don't you?"

"Yes, I do; but it isn't necessary for you to go poking and prying about among his things."

"Yes, that's the routine we have to follow. And your own common sense must tell you that we mean no harm and do no harm to Barry's belongings."
